Townsend Lectures

The Department of Classics at Cornell University is pleased to announce that Jennifer Trimble, Associate Professor of Classics, Stanford University, will deliver three Townsend Lectures in the Fall of 2016 on:

The Visual Culture of Roman Slavery

Jennifer Trimble

The dates and titles of the three lectures are:

4:30 PM, Friday
September 9
Seeing Roman Slaves: Conditions of Visibility

5:30 PM, Monday
September 12
Slaves, Gladiators, Space and Graffiti: the House of the Gladiators at Pompeii

4:30 PM, Wednesday
September 14
Visuality and Transformation in Roman Freedmen’s Tombs

All lectures will be in 165 McGraw Hall.

There will be a reception in the History of Art Gallery following the first lecture. Refreshments will be served in 119 Goldwin Smith Hall following the second and third lectures.